

WINCHESTER CHRISTMAS MARKET

Our last trip of 2017 was on Saturday, 9 December to Winchester for the Christmas Market.

Unfortunately, five people had to drop out at the last minute due to illness but those of us who did go had a really great day and felt that the day went really quickly.

Despite the cold, people were out in their thousands and the atmosphere was amazing. Everyone appeared in good spirits and there was laughter and smiles everywhere.

On questioning on the way home at the end of the day, not all shopped. Some of us visited the Guildhall for the Crafts stalls – very interesting, others attended a guitar recital, some met friends and family for coffee, etc and some found the gin shop.

Unfortunately, the ice rink was fully booked so no ice skating for me! However, I did attend the public consultation on the proposed new sports complex. I don't know if my comments were of any use but, as I won't ever be using them, I don't think it matters!
